

In the Supreme Court of the State of Alaska

Herbert Johnson,
Appellant,

v.

State of Alaska, CSSD,
Appellee.

---

Trial Court Case No. 3AN-18-09509CI

Supreme Court No. S-17911

Order

Response to Appellate Order

Date of Order: 4/27/2021

On April 5, 2021 an individual justice order was issued explaining the resolution of two earlier motions from the State to supplement the record for this appeal. (That order was issued in response to a reconsideration motion filed by Mr. Johnson after the second supplementation order was issued on March 16, 2021.) At the conclusion of the April 5, 2021 order Mr. Johnson was advised that if he had remaining concerns about the order he could file another reconsideration motion, but was “directed to explain precisely what he believes is incorrect about this order.”

Mr. Johnson has filed another reconsideration motion. But the issues he raises in the motion have nothing to do with the April 5, 2021 order. Mr. Johnson instead is arguing that the underlying CSSD child support orders and related decisions by the superior court in his appeal of a CSSD child support order are unjustified. But those questions are not presently before us to decide. The only question that is raised by Mr. Johnson’s appeal is whether Judge Guidi erred by not reopening Mr. Johnson’s appeal after it been dismissed because Mr. Johnson did not file an appeal brief. That question will be decided after briefing in this appeal is complete.
